For Peter Zimmels

Republicans: You’re poor because you’re ignorant of all the laws our Congress passed to cut the costs of schooling children who get tossed, nay, dumped upon society. While we do view with piety the right to life, we draw the line. Clean up your act. To woo or wine the loser class does not make sense. Let’s get this straight. We never winced at taking public time to quarrel with victims, thugs, the huge immoral segment of the population in our great, God-blessed, rich, free nation.

The Democrats: There was a time the GOP and all its crime got barely covered by the news, which only aired our sins and blues. What have they done for you, my friends? Is making do or making ends meet any measure of success? We back the same Big Business mess they do, but when we tighten your belt we dig up Franklin Roosevelt. We’ve given you prosperity without their stark severity. The only thing we have to fear? – Republicans. Now, is that clear?

A Citizen: More parties, please, more Sundays in democracies! Each party dances, each side sings; one great Big Bird with two right wings. They’ll boogie with you in the streets, then drag you down to dark defeats. Democracy? Look at our heroes: CEO’s billions, labor’s zeroes – pure DNA, unspliced and spliced. If you think oil is over-priced, consider what we’re going to pay for giving frequencies away – the broadcast band. I say let’s vote. Let’s kick some butt, let’s rock some boat.
