

Application for a Semester at the Raystown Field Station

We are accepting applications for the residential semesters at the Raystown Field Station. Please visit <http://services.juniata.edu/station/immersionsemesters.html> to see the current list of classes. You should first consult with your advisors to select the best semester for your academic needs.

Please fill out the application, and e-mail or deliver a hard-copy to the BAC Educational Services Assistant, Jess Harpster (harpstj@juniata.edu), B200 A.

If you have questions about the program, please contact Chuck Yohn, the Director of RFS(rfs@juniata.edu). Your normal Juniata tuition, course fees, housing costs and full-board plan cover the costs of the residential program; your full financial aid package continues to be in effect. Please talk to your advisors about this program to make sure it can fit into your academic schedule.

Acceptance Schedule

Applications for the next academic year are due February 1. Late applications may be considered after February 1 if space is still available. Your acceptance in the program will be confirmed by March 1 and is based on academic record and references. We will ask for a participation commitment on March 15. You can apply over a year in advance for a very early acceptance.

Applying for multiple semesters or an additional semester?

Because space is becoming limited in our semesters and many students are electing to take multiple semesters at the station, we need to protect space for first-timers so that all students get a chance to attend. If you are applying for multiple semesters, indicate your first and second (and possibly third) choice of semesters. For second and third choices, you will automatically be moved to the wait list. We will process the waitlist and confirm your acceptance just prior to the spring registration in the preceding calendar year. (In March, we will let you know for the following Spring and Fall Semesters)
